LISA FINDLAY
REAL ESTATE

Hello!

Spring has a way of making everything feel a little lighter. Longer days, warmer weather, and more time spent at home naturally invite small changes that can make everyday life feel easier and more enjoyable.

Inside, you'll find ideas to help refresh your home without taking on big projects. From small updates that brighten your space to simple ways to create a smoother connection between indoors and out, these are thoughtful shifts that can make a meaningful difference.

None of this is about perfection or major overhauls. It's about creating a home that feels comfortable, welcoming, and ready for the season ahead — one that supports how you live day to day.

If reading through this gets you thinking about changes beyond your walls, whether that's planning future updates, considering a move, or simply wanting a second opinion, I'm always happy to help. If someone you know could use that same kind of guidance, passing along my name is always appreciated.

SPRING-READY HOME REFRESH
(WITHOUT A FULL REMODEL)

As winter fades and the days grow longer, many homes feel ready for a refresh. The good news is that it does not take a full remodel to make your space feel brighter and more inviting. Often, a few thoughtful updates are all it takes.

- Swap heavier throws or darker pillows for lighter fabrics to instantly change the mood.
- Update small details like cabinet hardware, entryway décor, or add a mirror for impact.
- Bring life into your home with plants — even one or two can add warmth and renewal.
- Edit with intention. A little breathing room on counters or shelves creates calm.

Spring is a great opportunity to reset your surroundings and create a space that feels refreshed, comfortable, and ready for what's next.

EASY INDOOR-OUTDOOR LIVING FOR WARMER DAYS

As the weather warms, homes naturally begin to open up. Even without a large yard or patio, creating a connection between indoor and outdoor spaces can make your home feel brighter and more relaxed.

- Maximize light: keep windows clear, choose airy window coverings, and bring in nature-inspired colours.
- Use natural textures like wood, linen, and woven materials to create continuity.
- Make outdoor spaces an extension of your living area with seating, rugs, and soft lighting.
- Add fresh air, greenery, and seasonal scents for an instant mood lift.

With a few simple adjustments, your home can feel more open and ready to enjoy the warmer days ahead.

EVERYDAY HABITS THAT MAKE A HOME FEEL MORE PUT-TOGETHER

A home that feels put-together is not about being perfect. It is about creating habits that support how you actually live.

- Reset rooms each day. A few minutes of clearing surfaces and straightening up can change the feel of your home.
- Give everyday items a consistent place to land. It keeps your space calmer and tidying easier.
- Be mindful about what you bring in. Thoughtful choices and occasional editing keep your home balanced, not crowded.

Over time, these simple habits add up to a home that feels easier to maintain, more intentional, and comfortable to come back to.
